

Family, Friends Remember Krasnopoler

Friends, family and cyclists gathered at the spot on West University Parkway where the Hopkins student was struck by a car.

- By Adam Bednar
- February 27, 2012
- North Baltimore Patch

Family and friends gathered for a vigil and memorial ride in memory of Nathan Krasnopoler on Sunday.

Cyclists, friends and his family gathered at the spot where Krasnopoler, 20, was hit by an elderly driver while riding his bike along West University Parkway a year ago.

Krasnopoler was left in a coma after suffering permanent brain damage, and died this August.

His family has recently been advocating against a bill that would extend the time between driver's license renewals in Maryland.

